▶ The same day that police arrested a man and charged him in connection with suspected arson fires in Fort Rouge, a carport and shed were set on fire on Fleet Avenue.

Arsonist nabbed in recent blazes

Lack of 'independent evidence' in case is 'disturbing and concerning', lawyer Martin Glazer says ◐ 'Taking a statement from him is like taking candy from a baby,' Glazer adds

A Winnipeg man who was previously convicted of setting a fire has been accused in a long string of alleged arsons that left people in the Fort Rouge area shaken and afraid to sleep.

Brandon Sutyla, 20, was arrested at the scene of a car fire on Chancellor Drive at about 11:30 p.m. Wednesday, police said. He is in custody facing 20 arson-related charges as well as for possessing a lighter while prohibited.

The fires, which were usually set to garages but spread to nearby homes, caused $680,000 damage, said police. The charges against Sutyla have not been proven in court and he is presumed innocent.

Sutyla is also accused of breaching the terms of a two-year-long supervised probation order handed to him last fall as part of a sentence for setting a fire at a garage on Wellington Crescent two summers ago. People in parts of River Heights and Tuxedo had been victimized by a long streak of intentionally set fires targeting garages, fences and garbage cans. As well, some structures at Assiniboine Park had been damaged.

Police arrested Sutyla, then 18, and charged him with 19 counts of arson. He pleaded guilty last fall to one count as part of a plea deal with justice officials. Court heard Sutyla suffered from intellectual disabilities and attention-deficit disorder. The case against him largely rested on a statement he gave police after they took him on a ride-along where he allegedly pointed out areas where fires were set.

But the statement was "severely compromised because of his intellectual deficits" and would likely have been thrown out of court, his lawyer, Martin Glazer, said.

Const. Rob Carver said on Thursday that arson investigators don't anticipate making any further arrests in the Fort Rouge cases.

However, police said they're concerned that a suspicious fire was set behind a Fleet Avenue home hours after Sutyla was in police custody, and it's possible it could be a copycat crime.

"There's always a concern that that behaviour can spring up."

Molester's four-year sentence upheld by court

Previous convictions for rape and assault, 'complete lack of empathy' for victim informed appeal decision

JAMES TURNER
@METRONEWS.CA

Manitoba's highest court has upheld a four-year prison term for a child molester and single dad who told justice officials it was easier to meet his sexual needs through his young son's friends.

The man, 59, recently pleaded guilty to sexually interfering with a nine-year-old girl and breaching terms of probation handed to him for assaulting another young girl the year before.

He has convictions for rape and assault dating back to the 1970s, along with other violent offences. He can't be identified to protect the identity of the victim.

The man was arrested in August 2009 after witnesses complained to police about how he wrestled with the victim in a park on a play date with the man's son, then nine years old.

The judge hearing the case jumped the Crown's recommendation for a sentence in provincial jail of less than two years and ordered him off to prison for four.

The man appealed, saying too much emphasis was placed on his prior record, and that his efforts at rehabilitating himself over the years should be a factor in his favour.

In the span from 1993 to 2008, he stayed out of trouble, started his own business and raised his son alone, he argued.

However, the Manitoba Court of Appeal stated it was "uneasy" with pre-sentencing reports regarding the man's circumstances. One stated putting him back in the community was unsuitable given the risk he posed.

The man also attempted to justify his actions by telling a probation officer that, since he was a single father, "it was easier to meet his sexual needs with the people he had contact with, namely his son's friends."

The court also said the reports showed a "complete lack of empathy for the victim," and that the man's remorse was focused on the effect his crimes had on him.

Skeeters bite the dust

While Winnipeg was facing a summer of scratching and buzzing in early spring thanks to receding flood waters and rain, a July drought stopped skeeters in their tracks.

City entomologist Taz Stuart credits Winnipeg's low skeeter counts to last month's heat wave and larviciding program. Thursday's city-wide trap count was one, far from any requirements the city needs to start fogging.

With no rain, Stuart said he didn't anticipate a mosquito explosion. "I can't see anything (happening). But I'm not saying the war on mosquitoes is done."

ESKIMOS

HEATHER MCINTYRE
@METRONEWS.CA

The last time the Edmonton Eskimos were 5-0 to start the CFL season was 1980.

The last time they were 6-0 was 1951.

While that was a long time ago, there's nothing to say it won't happen again on Friday.

First things first, I know about Winnipeg. It's a lot like Edmonton, right? But what the heck is a Blue Bomber?

And Blue Lightning? The ladies should be pretty enough themselves that there's no need to fancy up the name of the cheer team. Cheer team, that's what we call them in Edmonton. And they're the best in the league.

Nanook, the polar bear, and Punter, the football, are also way cooler than birds named Buzz and Boomer.

We can fit more than 60,000 fans into Commonwealth Stadium — which has happened, might I add — while the new stadium Winnipeg fans can look forward to will seat half of that.

That must just mean there are more Eskimos fans than Blue Bombers fans.

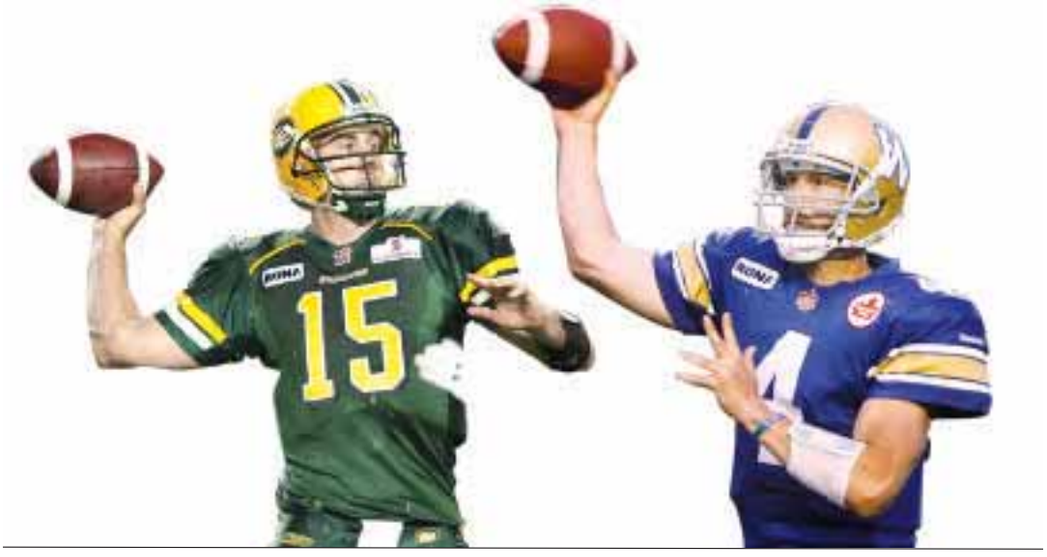
Plus, we have a fight song.

Also, the Eskimos can match any condition the Blue Bombers play in at home. Wind, rain and those damn mosquitoes (seeing as they've all left Winnipeg and migrated west.)

And with a name like Buck Pierce, the Bombers' quarterback sounds like he belongs on the Calgary Stampeders — which means we hate him even more.

Sure, Winnipeg have made the Grey Cup 23 times — more than any other team — but they have fewer wins than the Eskimos, who have 13 to their 10.

There's a reason Edmonton is the City of Champions.



Battle of division leaders

The Edmonton Eskimos and the Winnipeg Blue Bombers face off Friday at Canad Inns Stadium in Winnipeg Both are No. 1 in their divisions, with the Esks sporting a perfect 5-0 record and the Bombers at 4-1, losing by just one point in that defeat So who's gonna win? Metro Edmonton reporter Heather McIntyre and Metro Winnipeg managing editor Elisha Dacey offer their less-than-expert reasons for the supremacy of their respective teams

Why will the Eskimos win on Friday?

Alana Chapin
25, EDMONTON
"Eskimos have brought in defensive ends, so they can put pressure on the Bombers' quarterback, Buck Pierce.... They say he might play, but if he plays he still probably (is) injured or not up to his top game, so that probably will help the Esks."

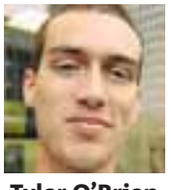
Dale Therrien
24, EDMONTON
"Winnipeg is the best team in the Eastern division. They are most likely to beat us to be honest ... but it seems that Ricky Ray and Fred Stamps make a really good combo. As long as we keep them in the lineup (ie., they don't get injured), we should be able to win."

Derrick Meyer
33, ST. ALBERT
"With an offensive line that protects Ray, a running game that includes Jerome Messam but isn't centred around one player, and a defence that has something to prove, the Eskimos prove week after week they can overcome anything thrown at them."

Why will the Bombers win on Friday?

Wisdom Kaonga
30, DOWNTOWN
"Buck Pierce is healthy, they're going to win. They're fired up this season. This is it for the Bombers. The way they're playing, they know this is it — this is their season."

Christian Jaques
32, CHARLESWOOD
"I think we're going to win because we have more determination and we just have an all-around better team. We got the best quarterback in the league.
Go, Bombers, go!"



Tyler O'Brien
20, ELMWOOD
"Because Bombers are doing so good now and we can't lose this streak. They're from Edmonton, we're from Winnipeg — we're stronger as a city. We're united as a city and our fans are way better than theirs."

BLUE BOMBERS

ELISHA DACEY
@METRONEWS.CA

Admit it.

No one thought the Bombers would even be here.

Despite being called the "best losing team the league has ever seen" last year, no one predicted the Winnipeg Blue Bombers would be leading the East halfway through the season.

Suddenly our D is getting things done. Have you seen the number of QB sacks this defensive line has?

I can't wait to see Jonathan Hefney slam Ricky Ray into the ground. Repeatedly.

But there are other reasons, aside from how the team is playing, why the Esks will go back to their igloos battered.

1. Green and gold? Come on. Those colours don't match nearly as well as blue and gold.

2. Buck Pierce is a much more manly name than Ricky Ray.

3. Edmonton is winning the mosquito-capital and murder-capital-of-Canada titles this year. Time to win something back.

4. We're replacing OUR crumbling stadium while Commonweatlth continues its crumbly decline.

5. Awww, Ricky Ray, I hear My Little Pony is considering naming a character after you.

6. The Edmonton Sucks Facebook page is much larger than the Winnipeg Sucks Facebook page.

7. Mascots Buzz and Boomer regularly pound the snot out of the Green Drop mascot, and I'm pretty sure they can take sissy mascots Nanook and Punter.

8. Both teams have cheerleaders, but we've also got the Flag Boys. And an airplane. And a cannon. Beat that.

9. Ricky. I'm pretty sure your parents were hoping that you were a girl.

It ain't just your cheatin' heart that will tell on you

- Cheaterville.com allows users to accuse others of infidelity
- Website currently has 10,000 profiles of alleged heartbreakers

For those with an itch to cheat, there's a new reason to think twice before sneaking around. Unless you want to risk being outed online.

Cheaterville.com, a U.S.-based website that made its way to Canada last month, allows anonymous users to post stories accusing friends, enemies, coworkers, ex-lovers and acquaintances of infidelity.

The site currently has about 10,000 profiles of alleged cheaters, which include full name, age, hometown, marital status, photos and other information.

The infidelity stories are not verified but that doesn't worry founder and CEO James McGibney.

"There's lots of things on the Internet and not everything is validated. At the end of the day, it's up to the person who's reading the post to determine whether it's true or not," said McGibney, noting that the site is moderated and posts with nude photos, personal phone numbers or credit card information are not allowed.

McGibney launched the site on Valentine's Day in Las Vegas and it has been gaining popularity since then.

A former U.S. marine, McGibney says he decided to start Cheaterville.com after a fellow marine found out his wife had been cheating on him during his deployment. Less than six months later, the site gets about 250,000 hits on a slow day, and McGibney hopes that it will soon reach a solid five million weekly hits.

Critics, however, argue the site provides angry exes with an outlet to spread false information, ruin careers and break up families.

One Canadian listed on Cheaterville.com, who wished to remain unnamed, denied the accusations and said the site has no business publicizing private matters. The allegations could cause their family enormous distress and ruin their professional reputation, the accused added.

But McGibney said he is not concerned about protecting the reputations of cheaters or worrying whether a cheater's employer will discover their indiscretions and fire them.

"You absolutely get what you deserve. We're here for the people who have been cheated on, not the cheaters. I don't care about the cheaters," he said. "In my opinion, it serves them right if something like that happens to them."

Wrongly accused? Tough luck

If you do by chance find yourself wrongly accused on Cheaterville.com, don't expect the website to take the post down.

Founder James McGibney says they don't play judge or jury. "We don't decide whether we believe that someone's telling the truth about an alleged cheater or not," he said.

According to Internet and defamation lawyer Gil Zvulony, if the accusations are both false and damaging, it could become a libel suit. But suing the website might not get you very far. While the defamation laws in Canada are different from the U.S.'s, Zvulony says the legalities aren't clear. "It's certain in the U.S. they're immune from liability, it's uncertain in Canada," he said. "The law is completely different here, it's sort of uncharted territory. The law is not clear where websites may be liable or not." PHOEBE HO

Without our product, consumers are often unable to purchase a vehicle or they purchase an unreliable one and are not provided the opportunity to improve their credit standing. As we report to all major financial national credit reporting agencies, a significant number of our customers improve their lives by improving their credit score and move on to more traditional sources of financing.

We have the late model vehicles people want and the ones that will qualify for this type of funding. The only thing that will affect your ability not to be approved is no down payment. I know they will benefit from this program and they will always come back to us to buy a car.

From what we were told in Toronto, business starts coming in from referrals, from our own customers who find out this program is for real. They usually tell all their family and friends about it. "This is a once in a lifetime opportunity for someone to come in to us and drive home a nice car and rebuild their credit," adds Doug.

Our staff has even told their families and friends to come down and we've notified some local companies and their employees to come down as well to take advantage of these great opportunities to rebuild your credit.

29,000 Somalian kids dead: U.S.

More than 1,000 arrive daily to refugee camp in Dadaab, Kenya Most fleeing fighting and hunger

The drought and famine in Somalia have killed more than 29,000 children under the age of five, according to U.S. estimates, the first time such a precise death toll has been released related to the crisis.

The United Nations has said previously that tens of thousands have died in the drought, the worst in Somalia in 60 years.

The UN says 640,000 Somali children are acutely malnourished, a statistic that suggests the death toll of small children will rise.

Nancy Lindborg, an official with the U.S. government aid arm, told a congressional committee in Washington on Wednesday that the U.S. estimates that more than 29,000 children under the age of five have died in the last 90 days in southern Somalia.

SCHALK VAN ZUYDAM/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

That number is based on nutrition and mortality surveys verified by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

The UN on Wednesday declared three new regions famine zones, bringing the total number to five.

Out of a population of roughly 7.5 million, the UN says 3.2 million Somalis are in need of immediate life-saving assistance.

Getting aid to Somalia has been made more difficult because al-Qaida-linked militants control much of the most desperate areas.

Tens of thousands of refugees have fled south-central Somalia in hopes of finding food at camps in Ethiopia, Kenya and in Mogadishu. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Born in Winnipeg, Syed Bokhari learned the value of hard work while working on his parents' poultry farm of 20,000 chickens in Anola, MB.

Syed began helping with the family poultry farm in the '80s and thanks to hard work, dedication, the wonderful mentorship of his father and strong family values, Syed helped his family become successful. Syed has used these skills in all aspects of his life and believes there is nothing more valuable than old-fashioned hard work.

In his late teens Syed began managing his family's poultry farm while attending the U of W. He studied political science, seeding his passion for politics. He watched his father deal in real estate and developed a love for property and development. He followed in his father's footsteps once again and became a successful real estate agent.

After this and other successful ventures Syed wanted to give back to his community. In addition to implementing major fundraising campaigns for various global catastrophes, he formed a company to assist residential school survivors with their applications for compensation from the government of Canada.

For his efforts, Syed was honored by a gift of an Eagle Feather by a prominent Elder, which is indicative of the high respect his work was given and was also a thank you for his help in First Nations communities.

Syed is committed to channeling his energy and passion to the community of Kirkfield Park. There is a strong need for community programs for youth and our elders. Our elders had paved the way to make this a better place for us all today, which we owe a great deal of respect.

GM upgrading Oshawa plant to roll out new Cadillacs next year
Says Oshawa will play critical role in transformation of luxury car

General Motors will invest $117 million to refit its assembly plant in Oshawa, Ont., to build the new Cadillac XTS next year.

GM said Thursday that the move will create or save 400 jobs on the flexible assembly line in Oshawa, site of the company's Canadian headquarters and main car-making operations.

The plant has had major changes in the past year, with new vehicle models and expanded production that has added two shifts and 1,300 jobs. It builds many GM models, from the Impala and Camaro to the Chevrolet Equinox and Buick Regal, and employs more than 4,500 people.

The Cadillac XTS is being designed to compete against other luxury cars, a highly competitive market. Production is planned to start next year.

General Motors Co. said Thursday that its second-quarter profit nearly doubled to $2.5 billion US as it got higher prices for its cars and trucks worldwide.

GM Corp. and its Canadian subsidiary were bailed out by the U.S., Canadian and Ontario governments two years ago.

Stocks plunge, fear takes hold

North American stock markets took a hammering Thursday as investors grew ever more pessimistic about the economy.

The composite index on the Toronto stock exchange plunged 435.89 points to 12,380.13, its biggest one-day decline since June 2009. New York markets also fell hard, with the Dow Jones industrial average tumbling 512.76 points to 11,383.68. And recent reports show that U.S. manufacturing, consumer spending and hiring are below healthy levels.

"The evidence suggests there is now the risk of a serious economic slowdown," said Sid Mokhtari, market technician of CIBC World Markets.

SOME DO GOOD DEEDS, OTHERS CLOSE LIBRARIES

THE METRO LIST

NEIL MORTON
METRO

1 People For Good: The People For Good campaign running in large cities in Canada on transit shelters, buses, billboards and the like encourages people to, well, do good. The brains behind it have no ulterior motives, they just wanted to start a positive social movement. Check out their website, peopleforgood.ca or download their People For Good iPhone app. Then go out and do good.

2 Ashley Picks ... J.P.!: So J.P. proposed and Ashley said "Yes!" on the Bachelorette finale Monday. Only time — or the "dot dot dot" (thanks Bentley) — will tell whether they make it to the altar, as the batting average of couples who actually stay together from past Bachelor seasons is something like .150.

3 Atwood for Mayor: A public feud between Margaret Atwood and Toronto Coun. Doug Ford (Mayor Rob's older bro) that began over public libraries (he wants to close branches to save $$$; she says no way) has led Atwood supporters to begin a cheeky, viral "Atwood for Mayor" campaign on social media and around Toronto. Atwood's not biting: "Noo, not running for Mayor.. too old. Used to think Too Ignorant, but that hasn't stopped some. :D Appreciate the kind thoughts however!" she tweeted out to her 235,000 followers.

4 Kings of Leon in trouble?: Frontman Caleb Followill walked off the stage in Dallas last weekend, citing heat exhaustion, and didn't return. In an act of commendable transparency, his brother, bassist Jared, sent out a couple tweets: "Dallas, I cannot begin to tell you how sorry I am. There are internal sicknesses & problems that have needed to be addressed. No words", and "I love our fans so much. I know you guys aren't stupid... There are problems in our band bigger than not drinking enough Gatorade." The band has cancelled the rest of its U.S. tour., and apparently wants Caleb to go to rehab to address his drinking problems.

5 The Change-Up opens: This body-switching comedy starring Jason Bateman and Canada's Ryan Reynolds starts Friday, with Bateman playing an overworked lawyer, hubby and dad, and Reynolds a single man-child. Think an alpha-male version of Freaky Friday on steroids, and you've got a couple of escapist hours of outrageous, over-the-top LOL high jinks.

6 MTV turns 30: MTV turned 30 earlier this week and for a time had the impact on the music industry that Rolling Stone magazine did when it launched in 1967. In recent memory, of course, it has become much more about pop culture than the music, but college kids still want their MTV. They just watch it while also listening to iTunes and checking out YouTube videos.

7 Neil Armstrong: Happy 81st birthday to the first man to walk on the moon, on July 20th, 1969. To celebrate, since Mr. Armstrong shares a birthday with Adam Yauch from the Beastie Boys, may we suggest a listen of Intergalactic?

8 Robbie Alomar: His No. 12 is now hanging from the rafters at Rogers Centre after being retired. Hope the next celebration he can be a part of is another Jays World Series. 2012 will be their year.

Worth Mentioning

JERRY LEWIS. Comedian Jerry Lewis and the Muscular Dystrophy Association aren't saying why they're fully parting ways after 45 years and raising more than $1 billion for the non-profit through its annual telethon.

But the 85-year-old comedian told reporters last week that he plans to hold a press conference the day after this year's telethon to talk about what he thinks is important.

When pressed by a reporter about his role with the telethon, Lewis said: "It's none of your business."

The association announced Wednesday that Lewis was no longer its national chairman and he would not appear on the telethon this year.

In May, Lewis said in a statement issued through the association that he would make his final appearance on the telethon this year and sing You'll Never Walk Alone during a six-hour primetime broadcast scheduled for Sept. 4.

When asked what he'd have to do to be satisfied with his life, Lewis said: "Get the cure for muscular dystrophy, then I'm fine."

WEIRD NEWS

You don't need to get a bee in your bonnet, but ...

It was a traffic accident with an added sting.

RCMP officers had to close an Alberta highway Thursday after a truck carrying honey bees rolled into the ditch.

Mounties say the contents of 104 hives spilled onto both sides of the two-lane road southeast of Edmonton.

Police say the accident happened when one of the truck's wheels dropped over the highway's shoulder into the ditch. The flatbed rolled onto its side and skidded several hundred metres when the driver over-corrected in his attempt to get the wheel back on the road.

The owner of the bees arrived on the scene and advised the fire department to spray a mixture of water and foam. RCMP say that killed a lot of the buzzers and brought the situation down to a "manageable level."

The owner also arranged for several of his workers to help clean up. The surviving hives where loaded into two separate vehicles and taken back to their home.

The escapees are European honey bees, which aren't nearly as aggressive as potentially deadly African honey bees, which are known to pursue, swarm and sting. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Apes remake lacks soul

Rise of the Planet of the Apes is full of action, but loses the camp appeal of the original ◗ Crouse and Breslin concur: this classic was better left untouched

Richard: Mark, I love Planet of the Apes. I've seen the original and the sequels countless times but I don't think Rise will find its way to my Blu ray shelf. I liked the action and some of the monkey business was very cool, but honestly, I wish they would have kept their stinking hands off my beloved damn dirty apes.

MB: Yes, Richard, one tinkers with a masterpiece at one's own peril. And I can't help but miss the elements that made the original franchise so great, mostly the heavy-handed irony, satiric wit, and that the apes talked!!! These apes are just too real, grunting away like a bunch of...apes. Although, even the CGI isn't perfect. In some shots, Caesar, the lead ape, looks like an overgrown Beanie Baby.

RC: I thought Andy Serkis's performance-capture work as alpha ape Ceasar was both one of the movie's strengths and weaknesses. No doubt his facial expressions, particularly the use of his eyes, add much to the character but the computer generated imagery used to bring Caesar to life, while often impressive, lacks an organic feel. The Roddy McDowell era apes were obviously fake — sometimes painfully so — but somehow they had more soul.

MB: I don't know about you, but I found the story — Science Experiment Gone Awry! — cheesy and derivative, but I did enjoy Caesar's antics in James Franco's house, which were pure kinetic poetry. But I suspect the entire movie exists for the last 20 minutes when the apes run amok in San Francisco. Genuinely thrilling, for me. Did you think Franco is really the reason to see the movie?

RC: No, I don't think Franco or Freida Pinto are reason enough to see the movie. It's all about the monkey business. When the revolution begins the movie kicks into gear and becomes the movie the trailers promised. Some of the action is a bit too showy — since when can apes do martial arts? — but the scene of Caesar on horseback leading the charge against the heavily fortified cops is a real crowd pleaser but for my money it took WAY too long to get to the good stuff.

MB: There's also a lot of hack work in the minor roles: John Lithgow's saintly Alzheimer's patient, the angry next door neighbour, and worst of all, Franco's boss at the research facility — a cardboard villain out of a much cruddier film. The apes had more depth, although perhaps that's the point of the movie.

Blige gets personal with The Help

Singer's soundtrack contribution is about moving forward She's doing that by testing her acting chops

DEBBIE LYNN ELIAS
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

While she's lent her musical talents to films before, Grammy-winning singer Mary J. Blige wanted the Living Proof, her contribution to The Help, to be more than a mere soundtrack listing.

Based on Kathryn Stockett's best-selling novel of the same name, the Help captures the essence of 1960s Jackson, Miss., chronicling the relationships between three very different women who come together around a secret writing project that puts them all at risk.

"I saw a screening of the movie twice," Blige explains.

"At each screening I had my Blackberry and I would write down each time something would make me cry and I would write down when I laughed. By the time we got to the studio, the song was almost written."

And while the song intertwines thematically with the film, it's still an intensely personal piece for Blige. "It means everything to me," she says of the tune. "It means I know exactly where I'm going. I know what lies ahead for me. I know that my journey continues because it's been so rough here that to have any life, I have to have the courage to keep moving."

And moving forward is something Blige excels at, starting with moving from music into acting. Having already made several television and film appearances, most recently in Tyler Perry's I Can Do Bad All By Myself, Blige is currently shooting Rock of Ages.

Describing her casting in the Broadway smash-turned-movie as "a blessing," Blige plays Justice, "a gentlemen's club owner — a very nice strip club owner," she says.

"I have to be the light in a dark place. Normally the person that's always the most bubbly person is the person with the most problems. The person is always smiling. So, that's who Justice is. And that's basically my part. Of course there's singing. I sing and I act."

Blige is taking her new career seriously, working with an acting coach to hone her skills. "I'm improving," she says modestly.

While she says music has given her great confidence in life, "acting is just the opposite. It says to me, 'You've got a lot of work to do. You're blinking. You're stuttering. Keep working on that. Keep working on your confidence.'"

And where does she hope that growing confidence will take her? Ideally into a Steven Spielberg film. "If he ever does a huge movie, I would love for him to call Mary J. Blige to be one of the African-Americans in the film," she says. "That's a big deal."

The Change Up
Genre: Comedy
Director: David Dobkin
Stars: Jason Bateman, Ryan Reynolds, Olivia Wilde
The Change Up, a new comedy starring Ryan Reynolds and Jason Bateman as best friends who switch personalities, feels as though it switched directors midway through.

The first hour is all gross out — baby endangerment, diaper hijinks and pregnant sex kittens — but into the second hour the characters not only start respecting one another, but the audience as well. It's still pretty outrageous stuff, but it has far more heart than the first half and the "I can't believe they just did that" laughs morph into genuine laughs based on the story and characters.

A wonderfully bizarre documentary that falls somewhere between Jackass and The Wrestler. The subject is Ralph Zavadil, a man who under the name Cap'n Video practically invented home video stunt/gross-out comedy on his Ontario public access TV series in the early '90s. Zavadil never achieved the fame of his followers, but there's something oddly inspiring about his lifelong dedication to idiotic behaviour. PHIL BROWN

Critics slam Oprah's Oscar

Film academy president Tom Sherak is coming to Oprah Winfrey's defence.

Sherak says Winfrey is "one of the most philanthropic performers in the world" and thus deserving of the academy's Jean Hersholt Humanitarian Award.

The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences voted Tuesday night to present Winfrey with an Oscar statuette at the annual Governors Awards in November.

Blogs have been abuzz with criticism over the selection of Winfrey.

In an article published Wednesday, Los Angeles Times columnist Patrick Goldstein calls the academy decision "a boneheaded move."

Goldstein and Deadline.com's Nikki Finke say Winfrey belongs more to the world of television than film. She was nominated for a supporting actress Oscar for 1985's The Color Purple, produced and appeared in Beloved in 1998 and was an executive producer of 2009's Precious.

Finke asks in her post if "no one among the philanthropic film bigwigs deserved this award more than her this year?"

Marriage is definitely part of the plan for former N'Sync star Lance Bass.

"I definitely want that. I'm a Southerner. We dream of having the family and the kids, and the parents want grandkids, that's all they care about; 'Give me some grandbabies,'" he tells the Daily Beast.

But first he has to find a boyfriend. While he's been spotted with more than a few men on his arm since his breakup with Reichen Lehmkuhl in 2006, the unidentified beau he's seeing now is the closest he's come to something serious, he insists.

Paltrow looks to change image

TRYING MUSIC, DROPPING ACTING? Gwyneth Paltrow is looking to shake up her image.

"It's good to shock people who think of me as the prim Gwyneth Paltrow," she tells Elle magazine.

One way she's looking to do that, under the guidance of some very famous friends, is by exploring a music career.

"Beyoncé Knowles and Jay-Z — they think that I should just go do it by myself. That I should go in a studio and see what happens," she says.

"And if it's good, do it. And if it's not, don't. So that's probably what I'll do."

The art of mix & match

PETER ROCKWELL

If you're a fan of single varietal wines (those made with just one grape), it's time for some tough liquid love. Many (and by many I mean most) wines that display one grape on their label are made from a juice blend.

But there's no need to riot. The laws of almost all wine producing countries allow for the mingling of fruit to balance flavour. What's typically displayed on the front panel is the primary grape which is usually more than 85 per cent of the union.

The French certainly love the idea of mixing grapes. The wines of Champagne are nearly always a blend of at least two, while winemakers in the Rhone Valley's famed Châteauneuf-du-Pape appellation can have their way with more than 13 to come up with their final cuvée.

The Aussies' have mastered the mega blend with wines like Peter Lehmann's 2008 Layers Red ($16.99 - $19.99) a bright berry mash of shiraz, tempranillo, carignane, mourvèdre and grenache that's red meat ready.

Grill for meat lovers & herbivores

- This weekend, make veggies the main dish & use meat as an accent
- Food Network star Guy Fieri offers a recipe for a grilled romaine salad

A salad should be chopped in the kitchen, not at the table. That's the advice of Food Network star Guy Fieri, who prefers salads made from bite-size pieces. "A good salad shouldn't require a knife," he said.

However it does require a salad spinner, or some other means of drying the greens. One of Fieri's salad turnoffs is wet lettuce. "It needs to be rinsed and dried," he said.

Here, Fieri offers an intense salad of grilled romaine lettuce.

"The sweet flavour of the romaine comes out when you char it on the grill," he said. "Hit it with the balsamic vinaigrette, bacon, onion and blue cheese and you have a nice balance of sweet and savory flavours."

MATTHEW MEAD/ THE ASSOCIATE PRESS

▶ This recipe takes just 15 minutes to make and serves six.

Preparation:

1. Heat a grill to high. In skillet over high, heat 15 ml (1 tbsp) of olive oil. Add onion and bacon and cook until bacon is crispy, about 10 minutes. Use slotted spoon to transfer onion and bacon to plate. Return skillet to heat and add the balsamic vinegar and 15 ml (1 tbsp) of the olive oil. Bring to a simmer, then cook to reduce for 2 minutes. Remove from heat.
2. Brush romaine with remaining 30 ml (2 tbsp) of olive oil, then season with salt and pepper. Place on grill cut side down and quickly sear until grill marks are visible. Set aside.
3. For each serving, place half a head of romaine cut side up on a plate and drizzle the balsamic dressing. Sprinkle with blue cheese and the bacon and onion mixture, then season with black pepper.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Matchup pits Eskimos' powerhouse offence against the Blue Bombers' CFL-best defence

ESKIMOS | BOMBERS

Time: 6:30 p.m.
TV: TSN

JOHN WOODS/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Edmonton quarterback Ricky Ray knows it's a surprise to many that the Eskimos and Winnipeg Blue Bombers lead their CFL divisions.

After all, the undefeated Eskimos (5-0) missed last year's playoffs with a 7-11 mark, while the 4-1 Bombers finished last season with a league-low 4-14 record.

"If you probably asked people about this going into the off-season, I'm sure not a lot of people would have picked this to happen," Ray said after arriving in Winnipeg to prepare for Friday's game.

"Just because, in our case, there was a ton of changes. You're kind of seeing two different teams. Winnipeg, the same coach, a lot of the same players. Us, we had a complete turnover.

"Two different ways to get to this point, and just the good thing is we're both playing well."

The nine-year quarterback thinks the last time he was on a team that opened 5-0 was in junior college.

He'll face a Blue Bomber defence that has been great in 2011. It's allowed the fewest yards of net offence (1,469), the fewest points (97) and is tops with 21 sacks.

However, Winnipeg will be without 11-year defensive tackle Doug Brown, who's sitting because of a foot injury. It's the first time Brown has missed a game since meningitis sidelined him for the first two games of the 2009 season.

Brown said there's either something torn or broken in one of his feet and he's not sure if he'll miss more than one game.

"It makes my skin crawl that I'm not able to participate out there," said Brown.

"You've got the best defence, the best offence. You've got the best team in the East, you've got the best team in the West. What else do you want?"

BOMBER DEFENSIVE END ODELL WILLIS

Bomber quarterback Buck Pierce said it'd be nice to defeat the Eskimos and "set a tone this early that we can play football here in Winnipeg."

"The CFL's a funny league," Pierce said. "There's so much parity in this league and so much turnover. Week-to-week, I don't think there's a bad football team in this whole league."

Pierce is going to have to spark a Bomber offence that's scored the fewest touchdowns (nine). He's thrown for 1,032 yards, with six TDs and four interceptions.

On the flipside, Ray leads CFL passers with 1,492 yards and is tops with a 118.1 efficiency rating. He's tossed 10 TDs and only one interception.

Eskimo Fred Stamps leads all receivers with 578 yards off 30 catches, including five for touchdowns. Running back Jerome Messam was Canadian player of the month. He leads the Esks with 274 yards on 55 carries, including a pair of TDs.

Edmonton's defence is no slouch, either. It's allowed the fewest yards rushing (437) and is second in points allowed (99).
